

Peng Sun, Professor of electronic science and engineering college, Jilin University. In 2014, he received his doctor's degree from Jilin university, China. His research interests have been focused on gas sensors based on oxide semiconductors. So far, he has published over 180 scientific papers in famous international journals, which have been cited more than 4800 times, H-factors: 43. He owns 27 China's national invention patents and First prize of Jilin province natural science (Second person, 2017),